In 1926, the most prolific architect in golf history, Donald Ross, used his legendary genius to shape acres of cow pasture into the Carolina course at The Waynesville Inn Golf Resort & Spa. Eighteen additional holes have been added in the years since, providing guests with 27 holes of pristine mountain golf. Over the years the Inn has hosted many well known figures such as Sam Snead, Chi-Chi Rodriguez, Arnold Palmer, Billy Graham, President Richard Nixon, and even Willie Nelson. In keeping with the tradition of excellence, the courses have recently received a 4-star rating from Golf Digest.

GOLF COURSES

Carolina (opened 1926)

The original layout is as beautiful as it is challenging.

Dogwood (opened 1929)

A test of your short game with tight, protected greens.

Blue Ridge (opened 1986)

The longest course features the greatest elevation change.
